

Characterizing hydroponic stock nutrient solutions

I've written several articles in the past about how to characterize concentrated hydroponic nutrient solutions using simple yet highly accurate small scale methods. I have now released a video showing how this is all done in practice, using the B solution I showed how to prepare in a previous video.